Class Song

A HYMN OF PRAISE

*Noble and strong, mighty and true
Thy guidance ever lending
'Til in our hearts the vision clear
Thou has fixed, of service rendering.*

*Through all our lives fervent and clear
Reflect thy deeds victorious
'Till dawn at last, the darkness past
We meet the day triumphant.*

*Thy lofty Halls calm and serene
Will ever shrine the worthy
Inspired to Truth, and Virtue's gleam—
Alma Mater praised be!*

*Through all our lives fervent and clear
Reflect thy deeds victorious
'Till dawn at last, the darkness past
We meet the day triumphant.*

TUNE: Swabian Folk Song

MARY RUTH JACKSON

Senior Class Poem

*As we approach this world of uncertainty in this time of turmoil and strife,
Your teachings of Christian Living will remain with us all through life.
These seeds will continue to grow and bloom through the seasons and years.
God strengthen our minds, bodies and souls as we press on through smiling years.
We will join the large family of Alumni, as we strive for highest goals,
Answering the call to service, wherever duty unfolds.
The memory of these "Ivy Covered Buildings" will linger as we onward march,
And we'll carry the love of our faculty enshrined within our hearts.*

EFFIE MAE WHITAKER.

Class Prophecy

Now the match is struck, the taper takes light and the sweet yet pungent odor of mystery fills the darkness. Gently, ever so gently, lifts the opaque veil of the silent morrow. Watch, Watch, while the cloudy mist sweeps into nothingness. Whirling, swirling, the diaphonous fumes twist and writhe in agonizing fury. Faster, Faster—Faster! The eyes of the watcher dilate with apprehension; time stands still, life becomes breathless. Watch—Watch—Rolling Tumbling ever Faster! Faster! Faster! Behold! The envisioned future! What stands there? Riches, poverty, success, failure, smiles, tears, sorrow, rapture—Come, Come my silent one dare you to Brave with me the hidden Riddle of the mocking night?

The clatter of silver on the marble—topped tables—bustling white frocked waiters smartly stepping between the crowded tables. The odor of fowl permeates the atmosphere—What have we here? Look there sitting in yon quiet corner—Why could it be? It is, none other than Betty Brown in the middle of a turkey drumstick making short order of the abundant meal before her. What? She stops a waiter. No, it cannot be more—he frowns, leaves only to return and place before her a double order of fish, which she attacks with singular gusto. Thus we leave her all absorbed, quite content, enjoying her one occupation.

The anchor is cast and the boat docks; a cry goes up from the natives, Memsahib' Sapp leads her missionary group forward to welcome her newly appointed fellow disciple, Mary Pridgeon, D.D., who together dream to bring light to the illiterate native.

The shrill horn of the automobile drives the frenzied mob deep into the side street interrupting Sister Cumbo's frantic exhortations for soul salvation to her Seventh-Day Adventist followers, "Cigars, Cigarettes—'so round, so firm, so fully packed'—Gentlemen, did you say Chesterfield?" The swanky cigarette girls, Lynette Armstrong and Susie Pearl Battle, stroll nonchalantly across the crowded cabaret floor. While filtering through the smoky haze above the clink of cocktail glasses, the husky undulant tones of Alvarez White drifts to the ear of the listeners, lamenting in a fashion distinctive to herself, "These things ain't what They Used To Be."

Sitting dejectedly on a bare street corner praying vainly for customers that consistently fail to materialize, our post card artist, Loleta Broadnax, strives desperately to keep the wolf out of the palour.

Deep in the heart of Culpepper, away down in the pines in a rustic schoolyard, stands school-marm Bernice Byrd laboring under the weight of 250 pounds, instructing the innocents in the art of Better Homes and Crops.

The Future finds us on familiar grounds, here in the president's office at old Shaw U.—and there sits behind the mahogany topped desk the pompous little President Thomas—President James Thomas dictating a memorandum to his dogmatic, individualistic, dictatorial Business Manager, Augusta White. President Thomas later dispatches a notice to Dean Bateman, Dean of Women, Hester Bateman, for a private conference concerning the incapability of the new school physician, Dr. Ruth Jackson. Dean Bateman and the chairman of the Discipline Committee, Ruth M. Blake, find no time for comedy with the problems of Cochetta Brewington Chavis and John Chavis, Jr.

"Farmer Ben Meeks" calls neighboring Farmer William Edmundson, "Come right over and see my pigs!"

Graciously, and with much poise, the chic Powers Girl, Gladys Brewer, mounts the velvet carpeted steps to the platform where she models the latest creation in tea time wear for Smart Fifth Avenue designers.

Toothless, and rheumatic the lame bride, Bette Malone, frantic and temperamental as ever, creeps slowly but surely to the altar, dragging the protesting remains of Louis James.

Dainty, petite Grace Morrisey tips softly into the dimly lit room to steal a glance at her sleeping wards of the Nursery School.

The Zoot suit, with the rete pleat and the creme seam perched atop the fire plug, clothes none but pimp Hicks—James Hicks, who anxiously awaits the "go" sign from his broad on the block.

Interpreter Richardson sits vulture-like at the head of the Foreign Language Bureau waiting desperately to pounce upon some unsuspecting immigrant and ensnare him thereby, into the holy Bonds of Matrimony.

Strangely enough, the future finds its women much of the same mind—for if I make no mistake is that not Mrs. Lamb making a last attempt to lure the big time Number Racketeer, Fred Reid into Rosy delusions of Marriage?

In our musings of Life Tomorrow, it is interesting to note that fate has not dealt kindly with the three addled flappers, Doris Baugh, Ruth Wimberly, and Marion Perkins

—unable to rope in anything faintly resembling a man, they have realized the inevitable and are now taken unto public advertising for even-tempered house pets.

Convinced of the fact that the field of Education holds no promise for them, Effie Mae Whitaker and Willie Mae Hicks have launched into business with the "M & M Hicks and Whit-U-Can Buy Anything" General Stores.

The "Kentucky Wonders," a hill-billy chorus under the expert leadership of Ruth Ray Mitchell, featuring the "Blue Grass" Yodeler, Anita Stewart and the "Washboard Tickler," Eleanor Carter, are making history of a kind, in Waycross, Georgia.

Banging fiercely on a strange door panel, the pugnacious Andolia Oakley, head of the S.P.C.A. (Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals) summons the unsuspecting miscreant before the district precinct.

Miss Dionne Boyd, better known as Anna Leigh Boyd, the mother of the "double quintts," smiles broadly for the photographer while her ten little young ones nestle about her.

While cruising down 5th Avenue in a 1954 Badillac, the whistle blows and we stop at the intersection as Officer Morgan, who has been recently elected to the Police Force in N. Y. C., raises her hand and signals to the pedestrians to move forward.

This Young Miss may be seen on the scene of any sensational murder; she is well known to the police department and the underworld—but do not mistake me, she is not a criminal—only a cub reporter, who heckles all she contacts and never reports a story straight. Yes, you know her, Reporter Doris Newsome.

In the middle of the fairgrounds at this county seat, demonstrating the new gasless tractor which turns up everything but the earth, sits J. Scott Matthews, farm demonstration agent, at the wheel of the New Machine, attempting to catch the interest of local hayseeds.

Not quite having achieved his long cherished ambition, but refusing to be defeated, Albert Hamlin hopefully clings to his post as janitor of the Biological Laboratories, where he has been faithfully employed for the last ten years.

"Western Union" calls the burly messenger as he rattles the pane in the door, and we are shocked to find the impatient messenger, Theodore Childs mounting his bike, telegram in hand.

Vitamins H, D, R, and Q are working wonders in the insect world producing swat-proof house flies. Although much has been done for the growth of Fly tissue by the Misses Hudgins, Daniels, Rogers and Quinnerly through their discovery of these vitamins, little can be stated for their Evolutionary effect on human anatomy.

Director John Young of the Billion Dollar Motion Picture Company and his stellar actresses, Eloise Nettles, Louise Watson, and Minnie Ruth Thompson, are yachting in the South Pacific on a rest cruise between productions.

The Daye, Hall and Harry "Wood, Coal and Ice Co., Inc.," under the excellent management of its stockholders, Mae Letha Daye, Essie Hall and Cheryl Harry, supplies all of Wake County with its fuel and lumber building material.

Our Wonderings end on a note of glamour set by the Multi-Millionaire heiress, whose pictures appear in the society column of all recognized newspapers and who most recently startled the social world with her house of Mirrors. No, it could be none other than the ravishing Viviani Chavis.

In the field of Public Works, that is—street cleaning, waste collection, street repair and general do little we find the remainder of our still zestful though not so youthful, eager classmates, listening always for that knock of opportunity that never comes, but which would spell for them the end of their dreams come True.

Das ist Alles!
